

The Office Of Morenga – Attorney At Law

Dear Sir

I am writing to inform you of a grave situation of suspected injustice. The situation involves one Stanley Yelnats, serving detention at Camp Green Lake, a juvenile correction facility. Stanley's supposed crime against the state was the stealing of a used pair of Clyde Livingstone's sneakers that were being displayed prior to auction to raise funds for the homeless. (Clyde Livingstone is a famous baseball player.)

Stanley's mother has received a note in the mail written on a scrap of paper towel, (a copy is attached), and she is expressing great concern for her son's safety. She states emphatically that her son was not guilty and, unable to afford a lawyer, she advised her son to tell the truth. His story was not believed. When Stanley was sentenced to Camp Green Lake, his mother requested information on the camp prior to his going there, but was refused. The judge's reasoning was that "Vacancies don't last long at Camp Green Lake" and, since there was an opening right at that time, he insisted that they take it.

I too am concerned, not only at some of the irregularities that seem to be present in this case, but also that this note appears to be authentic, and gives rise to many questions. To allay the fears of the mother, I request an investigation with results expected within the week. If I have not heard from you within the week, I will be approaching the news media.

Yours sincerely,

Ms Morenga
